Women try to rescue building

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Determined to rescue Old South Middle School from demolition, three Romulus women are pooling their resources.

Gloria Chandler, Kristine DeTroyer and Helen Hay are this week distributing petitions throughout the city and are planning to address city councilmembers with their concerns Oct. 23.

The building, located at 11401 Olive St., housed the Beacon Day Treatment Center until June. Empty and in need of repair, the building is now being considered for demolition by school officials.

However, the three women feel the historical value of the building warrants saving it. When it was constructed approximately 60 years ago, it became the first Romulus high school building.

Originally, it contained a gymnasium and eight classrooms. The building was expanded in 1940 and 1950.

In the late 1950s, a new high school was built on Wayne Road, and South Middle School was converted into a junior high school for grades seven through nine. In the late 1970s - after a new junior high school was constructed on Wick Road - The South Middle School building was used for the Romulus schools adult-education, special education and Beacon Day treatment programs.

Currently, Romulus school officials are concerned about asbestos found in the building and the amount of repair work needed to the roof and boiler. After inviting area residents to two meetings staged to determine the fate of the building, school officials proposed the demolition of the building.

That action has not, however, been formally approved by members of the Romulus schools board of education.

Chandler, DeTroyer and Hay feel a more logical solution is to repair the old high school and use it as a recreation facility. They sent a letter to city councilmembers, offering their ideas.

"We feel that the destruction of the very 'vehicle' which could bring about the revitalization of the downtown area of Romulus would, most certainly, prove to be a very costly and regrettable mistake," the letter stated.

The letter urges city officials to accept a recent offer from school officials to purchase the building for $1. The remaining three pages of their letter list possibilities for the building categorized as "community orientated" and "income producing."

In the first category, the letter suggests using the building gymnasium, showers, locker rooms, athletic fields, track facilities and tennis courts.

The stage and auditorium could also be used for theatrical productions, dance and musical recitals, talent shows, Christmas parties, visits from Santa Claus for children, police training classes and meetings, according to the letter.

For the meetings, the letter lists 20 local organizations which need the space, in addition to nine city boards and commissions.

City battles changes to senior housing proposal

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Plans for a senior citizen housing development pegged for Wayne Road are looking better than ever, Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally told city councilmembers last week.

Proposed cuts to reduce the cost of the project by officials from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development were recently rejected.

City officials last year acquired the land for the project and agreed to absorb the cost differential between the HUD appraised value and the actual purchase price.

The city also allocated $49,000 to pay for infrastructure and landscaping improvements, waived all building-permit fees and granted variances from the city zoning ordinance.

McAnally expressed concern two months ago, when HUD officials suggested changes to the site plan approved by the city.

"Our primary interest in supporting this development is to achieve a high-quality yet affordable living environment for our senior citizens," McAnally said, in a recent letter to the Detroit HUD office. "The site-selection and building-design process was a very deliberate one, aimed at having an attractive building that would be an asset to the community."

After protesting the cutbacks, McAnally recently received a letter from the Detroit HUD office. The letter had been sent to officials in Washington, D.C., supporting the original site plan.

Among the once "red marked" items was an entrance canopy to shelter the entrance from snow and icy conditions, zigzag sidewalks to accommodate large existing trees and building offsets or facades. Detroit HUD officials said that a long, three-story building without facades would be unattractive and may hurt the marketability of the project.

Other rejected suggestions from Washington include moving the building.

City once hosted prisoner camp

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

The city of Romulus was the site of one of 25 Michigan prisoner-of-war camps during 1944 and 1945 - the final two years of World War II.

A recent article in Michigan History magazine listed the local POW camp and 24 others in the state. Other cities used to detain war criminals were Allegan, Alma, AuTrain, Bay City, Blissfield, Caro, Coloma, Croswell, Detroit (at the State Fair Grounds), Dundee, Evelyn, Freeland, Fremont, Grand, Grosse Ile, Hart, Lake Odessa, Mt. Pleasant, Owosso, Pori, Raco, Sawyer, Sodus and Waterloo.

Longtime Romulus resident Charles Lau believes the local camp was located on what is now airport property, east of Middlebelt Road. Lau still recalls local life during the final days of the war.

"I do remember going down there, hearing talk of a camp," Lau said.

Richard Teasdale is the building manager of the Romulus Veterans of Foreign Wars post. He remembers special barracks being constructed at an International Guard Post on Middlebelt. The facility was specially constructed for the prisoner camp, he said.

"That's the only place it could have been in Romulus," Teasdale said.

After the war, he added, the International Guard relocated to the Selfridge Air Force Base and the Salvation Army moved into the camp facility.

Today, the Salvation Army has been replaced by office buildings, hotels and other airport-related developments. The Romulus campsite may not have attracted very much attention among local residents, but was not uncommon during that period. In all, more than 400 German prisoners were housed in more than 500 camps throughout the United States from 1942 to 1946.

During that period, Michigan received more than 10 percent of $200 billion in war contracts. It was also a top agricultural producer for the war effort.

As young men were sent to fight, the state was faced with a major labor shortage. It was this crisis that prompted federal officials to establish POW camps in Michigan. The German prisoners could volunteer to work, as part of terms outlined during the 1929 Geneva Convention.

Those who agreed to work were sent to local canneries and farms.

Most of the POWs worked 48 hours, six days each week, according to the Michigan History magazine article. Their pay - 80 cents a day - was in the form of coupons for the camp

County commissioner's husband dies

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Jerome K. Beard was known by those who knew him as witty, talented, and the man behind the woman who is the Wayne County Commissioner. Mr. Beard also was known as Jerry, a very shy person in a crowd, but one who possessed a charismatic and charming personality, his friends say.

"Because he attended most of the political functions that Kay did," said Joseph Davis, Jr., mayor of Inkster, "I got to know him pretty well. Believe me, he was the most friendly and likeable person around. And he was very witty."

Mr. Beard, 71, the husband of Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard, died Sept. 27 after a long illness.

Services were conducted for Mr. Beard at John N. Santeui Funeral Home in Garden City and at St. Norbert's Church

Jerome Beard

Sept. 30, The Rev. Terence Treppa officiated. Interment was at St. Hedwig's Cemetery.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Beard served with the 103 Signal Company in Europe, seeing action in France and Austria. After his discharge from the Army, Mr. Beard continued his life-long dream by becoming a commercial artist in Detroit.

Jerry and Kay were married in March of 1946 and the marriage produced five children — three boys and two girls.

Mr. Beard continued his pursuit of the arts at Wayne State University, but he never sacrificed his family for his profession, friends said.

"Jerry was," said Mrs. Beard, "a very family-oriented person. He was very much involved in raising his family."

As Mrs. Beard became more involved in politics, Mr. Beard became even more supportive. "In fact, because of his background in art, Jerry would help design my posters and campaign. He was very proud when I became elected," Mrs. Beard said.

Mrs. Beard, first appointed to the county commissioner's seat in 1978, has been re-elected for six consecutive terms. Her district includes Westland, Inkster and Garden City.

Three years ago, Mr. Beard was stricken by a heart ailment that required bypass surgery. He died on Sept. 27 at Veteran's Hospital, in Allen Park, of organ failure as a consequence of pneumonia.

Mr. Beard is survived by his wife, Kay; three boys — Ronald Michael, Donald Joseph, Kevin Patrick, and two daughters — Kerry Anne and Vicki Sandlin. He is also survived by a twin brother — Victor Beard, of Peoria, Ill.; and two sisters Nancy Barnett and Joanne Broadhurst of Suring, Wis.

Veterans invited to share experience

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

In the battle for acceptable veterans health care, Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard is one warrior who will never surrender.

"We had a lot of problems finding out who was going to pay for the care of my husband, and I still don't know. And just because he is gone doesn't mean I will stop my fight."

Kay Beard's husband, Jerome Beard, died Sept. 27 following a long illness. Beard served in World War II.

"I know if we were having these problems, a lot of other families are going through the same thing,"

Beard (D-Inkster), chairperson of a special committee on veterans services, has scheduled a public hearing concerning the health care service of Wayne County veterans. The hearing will be staged from 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday at VFW Post 345, 27345 Schoolcraft Road in Inkster.

Committee members will hear testimony from veterans, family members, health care professionals and others wishing to share their own experiences regarding the Veterans Administration health care system.

Beard blames the newly implemented category system for causing hardship on many veterans and their families. She said by starting the category system, "the federal government has reneged on its promise to provide health care and other services, whenever needed, to those who served their country in wartime."

The system is divided into three categories. The first group, category A, includes veterans who have service-related disabilities and are offered complete coverage. Category B includes veterans who have very low income and no health coverage. If the individual hospital can afford it, they will pay the coverage for Category B veterans, Beard said.

Category C includes veterans with non-service related problems with higher income or personal health coverage.

The system, according to Beard, had been in place for a number of years, but wasn't implemented until January of this year.

"When these people were discharged, they were told that the government would be there to cover any problems they had," Beard said. "This system goes against that."

"I had my own problems and I have heard of other complaints from veterans all over the country. The new guidelines are shutting out people who were getting health care prior to the category system."

During the public hearing, Beard hopes to find out just how many families are affected by the new system and how the system will affect Wayne County veterans.

"We also want to get the word out that the system has changed," she said. "We don't want veterans to find out they are not covered when it's too late."

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Citizens group is organized

The formation of a downtown-development citizens' advisory council was approved by Romulus city councilmembers last week.

Formation of such a group is required by city charter whenever a development area contains more than 100 residents.

Members of the new council are Kathy Darnell, Eva Webb, Duane Martin, Robert Burek, Diana Burek, Robert Pressler, Travistine Marion, Fred Cooper and Josephine Rehkopf.

Man dies in car crash

A 35-year-old Romulus man died Oct. 11 after his mid-size car was struck on the driver's side by a semi-truck.

Marvin Raye Brittain was pronounced dead on arrival at Annapolis Hospital, in Wayne, after being transported from the accident site, at the corner of Ecorse and Middlebelt road, according to police reports.

Romulus police officials responded to the crash site at approximately 10 p.m. Apparently, Brittain's car was heading northbound on Merriam and was in the left lane of traffic when his car was struck by a tractor trailer.

The truck had been moving eastbound on Ecorse and was reportedly driven through a red traffic signal, according to police officials.

The truck driver was not injured.

Hunt begins for honored person

Members of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce are searching for the 10th annual Romulus Person of the Year.

Nominees should be people who have made a significant contribution to the community. The individual will be honored during an awards banquet March 2 at the Airport Hilton hotel, in Romulus.

Nominations are available at the chamber office, located in the Holiday Inn Conference Center, 31200 Industrial Expressway. Nomination deadline is Dec. 1.

Court expansion contract is OK'd

Romulus city councilmembers last week authorized the mayor and city clerk to sign a building-authority contract which will allow the expansion of the 34th District Court, in Romulus.

Councilmembers approved the $1.2 million court expansion Sept. 11 and pledged full city backing of a bond issue to finance the project.

The contract for the expansion will be effective 45 days after a legal notification of the project is published.

City assists new business

To allow the development of a car wash at the corner of Van Born and Henry Ruff, Romulus city officials have agreed to maintain 20 feet of a new storm sewer system required by the county for the project.

The service has been provided by the city in the past, according to Deanna Lovenduski, inspector/coordinator for the Romulus Department of Public Works.

Developer Douglas Martin has promised in writing that he will reimburse the city if the system needs repair work.

City seen in training film

The lights, camera and plenty of "action" were focused on the city of Romulus last week.

Actually, the center of attention was the city department of public works. Representatives from the New Boston-based Kasper Studios selected the department as a back-drop for an 11-minute training tape for municipal workers. The program focuses on defensive driving.

The tape, which is being sponsored by Government

Risk Management, will be used throughout the state. It will also contain driving scenes taped in other parts of Michigan.

However, the fact Romulus will be serving as a role model for other communities has become a source of pride for city officials.

"It's a great honor for the city to be chosen," said James Panos, DPW director. "It puts Romulus on the map."

Most of the project was taped near the DPW building Oct. 12. Department employee Jerry Szweda served as the main actor. He will be seen driving, checking tires and inspecting fluids in city vehicles.

"It's different, a change of pace," Szweda said, during a taping break.

City officials learned of the project Oct. 10. Taping began shortly after Mayor Beverly McAnally authorized use of the DPW and city employees.

Kasper Studios officials have produced 100 television commercials to date, along with comedy and children's productions, according to Walt Kasper, director of the Romulus project.

Stars for a day, employees of the Romulus Department of Public Works were followed by a camera crew Oct. 12 as representatives from a New Boston television studio worked on a municipal training film. Directing this film was Walt Kasper (top, left) of Kasper Studios. Jerry Szweda (above) was the actor in most of the scenes, demonstrating safe driving techniques. City employee will be on television program

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

When city of Romulus employee Margaret LeDuc agreed to take a special computer course last fall, she did not know that her newfound expertise would merit television coverage.

Nevertheless, the coordinator of emergency preparedness for Romulus, LeDuc will head to Washington, D.C., next month to participate in a televised panel discussion. The topic will be the role of computers in emergency management.

Scheduled Nov. 15, the show will be a production of the Emergency Education Network and will be viewed nationwide. It will be broadcast from the Federal Emergency Management Agency Institute, in Emmitsburg, Md.

"I am just so excited," LeDuc said.

LeDuc was selected to participate in the show because she completed a class in "Micro Computer Application in Emergency Management" at the FEMA last November. The class introduced computer programs and possible applications for emergency situations, LeDuc said.

While in Washington, LeDuc will explain the computer system used in Romulus, she said.

City officials have been working for one year to develop an emergency-management computer-program, LeDuc said. In use now is the Cameo system.

The program contains a detailed list of local businesses, including locations, chemicals, health hazards, storage systems and contact people. If a chemical fire or explosion occurs within the city, the computer immediately provides data to the terminal operator.

In addition, LeDuc said, the program will soon be ready to help public-safety officials plan for emergency situations. The system will allow users to determine the size of chemical plumes (clouds) resulting from an explosion. That information will help fire and police officials plan evacuations.

The system will also be able to provide maps of the city, LeDuc explained.

"It's really the state of the art for hazardous information," LeDuc said.

Before city officials secured the Cameo program in December, LeDuc had established a data base on a regular word-processing program. Her program cannot map evacuation plans but does provide names and telephone numbers of area business officials and links the information to an emergency-response guidebook.

Margaret LeDuc

le-family homes and a vacant commercial building.

The estimated cost of this portion of the project is $235,000.

Other parking projects include rearranging an area grocery store parking lot along with an adjoining lot to the south. The plan also suggests paving and marking two small lots on either side of Goddard Road, to improve appearance and useability. These projects would total $100,000.

Plans for residential street improvements include the closing of several residential streets which connect to Goddard. The closures would help separate the commercial district and the residential area, according to the plan.

To achieve the goal of an increased residential neighborhood, the plan also proposes the development of multiple-family housing along the east side of Hunt street, north of Bibbins. The project may require land acquisition. Cost of this project is unknown.

To improve the appearance of the downtown region, the plan recommends the completion of the Romulus Historical Park. The project includes landscaping, lighting and a completed historical museum in a former red school house. Community-development block-grants have been allocated to fund this portion of the plan.

Time frames for most projects are still being finalized. However, the Goddard Road realignment is expected to begin between 1990 and 1992. Work on the historical park is already under way.

Because some of the proposed projects may result in relocation for area families or businesses, the plan states the DDA will reimburse those affected.

The final portion of the plan deals with methods to finance the proposed projects. Suggested is a tax-increment finance-authority. This method would allow the DDA to "recapture" tax revenue generated by the proposed improvements. Thus, the authority would be reimbursed for any investments in the area.

Romulus city councilmembers have yet to take official action on the overall plan.

Air freight development is approved

A new office and air freight facility is in store for Romulus.

City officials recently granted a special use approval for Circle Freight International, a 35,250-square-foot facility planned for the Metroplex Industrial Subdivision near Ecorse Road and Middlebelt.

This new development would be a larger version of a 20,000-square-foot facility located on Metroplex Drive, developers said. The existing site does not provide enough space for what they described as a needed expansion.

Once completed, the new facility is expected to require 15 to 20 additional employees.

Other suggestions include locating community-service groups in the building and using it for recreation activities.

In the income category, the letter suggests using the old school for office space, retail sales space, a roller-skating rink (in the basement), a manufacturing firm, a reception facility for showers and weddings, a conference site or a spot for driver-education classes.

If the building would be used as a recreation facility, swimming-pool facilities were suggested as a future project.

However the building is used, the three women want it to remain in use. Hay and Chandler went to high school there, and Hay recalls the efforts of funding the construction of it.

"We paid with our sweat for those buildings," Hay said.

Chandler said that, by offering options for the building, members of her group hope to take a positive approach to saving it.

"We're not criticizing anyone," she said.

"Even if it takes a bond issue, this group is willing to campaign for that," Chandler said. "You would have a beautiful building."

Block grants for nonprofit groups meet opposition

A proposal by nonprofit organizations, which would allow them to gain access to Community Development Block Grant funds, met with opposition from members of the 17-community Conference of Western Wayne.

Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett reported that nonprofit organizations, united as the Coalition for Low Income Community Development, are calling for nonprofit organizations to be directly eligible applicants in CDBG programs. They have asked that low- and moderate-income people be increased from 60 to 75 percent, and that a second tier of targeting be established to benefit persons earning 50 percent or less of median income.

The coalition also proposes that a funding preference be established so that community-based organizations would receive 25 percent of each grantee's annual CDBG funds.

Concerns expressed by Bennett were echoed by representatives of other western Wayne County communities.

Bennett said the CDBG program is the only existing federal grant program that retains the flexibility required to deliver needed services principally to low- and moderate-income residents. In his community, Bennett said, more than 90 percent of all of the funds received have benefited low- and moderate-income citizens, with the remaining 10 percent used for administrative costs.

In a letter to Sen. Carl Levin that Bennett presented to CWW members, he wrote, "Should the proposed amendments advocated by the nonprofit organizations be enacted, our CDBG program would be severely jeopardized, because the program would no longer contain the flexibility required by the City of Livonia to determine our own needs and fashion a program to meet those needs. It is that flexibility that has made the CDBG grant program such a success."

SCHOOL NEWS

Kindergarten students deserve respect too

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

I admit it. As strange as this sounds, I enjoyed being Miss Florence for a day.

That was the name I was given last week when I visited one of Kathy Kudra's kindergarten classes at Halecreek Elementary School.

It was a day of reviewing shapes and letters, of singing and, most importantly - at least to the children - molding Play Dough.

Throughout the day, all of the children received a word of praise at one point or another. When Kudra took attendance, she told the student she was happy the youngster was there.

An key part of kindergarten is learning to enjoy school, she later explained.

"I really believe in positive re-enforcement. The most important thing about kindergarten is children feel good about themselves and the learning environment," Kudra said.

In addition, the students' day was very structured. There was a child of the day, a letter of the day, a shape of the day and a nursery rhyme of the day.

The child of the day was a privileged one. She was first to select play areas, to recite and to sit down for the afternoon snack. Another child whose mother came to help teach was also star for the day.

With this practice, all of the students have time in the spotlight, Kudra said. The quiet children are not overlooked.

Kudra began lessons with children arranged on the carpet in front of her. First was the shape of the day. The children learned three ways to draw a star - with two triangles, the "in and out way" and crossover style. All of the shapes were demonstrated on a small chalkboard for the children.

Reviewing other shapes, the students illustrated them with their hands, as they recited the directions in unison. My personal favorite was the rectangle - way over and way over and down and down.

Many of the lessons were highlighted with solid examples. When the children reviewed the color of the day, they watched Kudra pull from a purple can purple bracelets, beads and even a purple elephant. Sneaking in a lesson on complete sentences, Kudra asked each child to tell her what she was holding, beginning with "I see a purple..."

A similar practice was used to review the letter E, which, by the way, is down and over and over and over.

Moving on to more complex ideas, the class reviewed the concepts of over/under and same/different. Later, the children reviewed some of these principles with worksheets.

Most of the work involved coloring pictures. For this, they used the traditional giant-size crayons.

A slight debate began during this process, when one girl chose not to color her sunshine yellow.

Kudra reassured the students they had free artistic license.

"Just do the best job you can," she said.

After work time were two play sessions. In the first session, children were assigned to various stations within the room, such as the Lego table, the Play-Doh table, the beads and string section, blocks or a mock kitchen.

Later, the children were allowed to choose the stations of their choice.

To end the day, the children were treated to a story (Goldilocks and The Three Bears), complete with sound-effects and snack time. The specialty of the day was peanut-butter crackers.

By the end of the year, the children will be involved in similar activities with a new emphasis, Kudra said, after class. For example, students who are learning numbers now may be working on the words for numbers, instead of the digits by spring.

Kudra will also begin emphasizing beginning and ending sounds to words, a prerequisite to reading.

"Toward the end of the year, there will still be playtime and stories, but there will be a higher level of painting and artwork," Kudra said. "It depends on the child."

Perhaps, this warrants a followup story. After all, it would provide another chance for me to be "Miss Florence."

School nets good reviews

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Despite the complaints older children often seem to have at one point or another about school, kindergarten students have rave reviews for the place of learning.

Or so it seemed at Halecreek Elementary School, in Romulus, last week.

"I like to play at the Play-Doh table," said student Melissa Brewer.

Many of her classmates agreed. Play-Doh ranked as one of the most popular activities.

Amanda McCowan said her favorite part of kindergarten is her teacher, Kathy Kudra.

"I like her because she's nice," McCowan explained.

McCowan said school is not exactly what she thought it would be. She expected to go to school every day of the week and have a chance for nap time.

Another student, Anna Marie Decamillo, was proud to show that she can write her own name.

"I like to read books, and I like to draw," she said, listing her favorite class activities.

"I like the blocks," said her classmate, Rodney Bailey.

Alex Arambula said he is looking forward to the first grade. For now, he said, he enjoys drawing and playing with the toys.

Jessica Hotham said playing in the house area is her favorite part of the day.

"I play the mommy or the daughter," she said.

When asked what she had learned so far in kindergarten, she offered an extensive list.

"Lots of neat things. We learned all the colors, all the shapes and the numbers and lots of neat signs," Hotham said.

Kindergarten revolution seen

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Apparently, kindergarten is not what is used to be. But that may be soon changing.

Some local kindergarten teachers have noticed that the increasing emphasis on academics that appeared in the middle 1970s is now fading from the scene.

"It's going back to what it should be," said Patti McCabe, who teaches at Cory Elementary School, in Romulus.

Now, the focus is shifting toward the child's development. Children are being prepared for a traditional classroom setting by learning problem-solving, working with others, role-playing, vocabulary and word-structure, she said.

"What I'm essentially trying to do is teach them to follow directions," McCabe said.

In addition, she said, kindergarten age is a good time to learn new words. McCabe believes the children should learn them, along with other areas, through a hands-on approach.

For example, every week, McCabe plans a special snack time activity, to reinforce a lesson. When her class made butter last week, the students learned a little about history, counting and following a sequence of orders.

Next week, the students will eat vegetables that begin with the letter "C."

McCabe stressed that kindergarten students are more likely to become excited about learning with these types of activities, instead of two hours of strict academics.

Kathy Kudra, a kindergarten teacher at Halecreek Elementary School, in Romulus, has a similar philosophy. She agreed that academics are now being downplayed with kindergartners.

"Now, we're looking at children more individually," she said.

Kudra believes the change is beneficial. It allows each child to make some form of progress, she said.

Michigan elite teens stage rally

Local members of the Michigan Elite Teens work/recreation program recently staged a "Say No To Drugs" seminar in Romulus.

During the educational event teens were addressed by Westland Mayor Charles Griffin and Sgt. Kay Scott of the Detroit

Police Department Drug Education Unit.

Approximately 100 teens, their friends and parents attended the program. Members of the group plan to conduct other activities in the same spirit such as staging a canned goods drive for a local drug rehabilitation center, handing out educational material and arranging more seminars.

The Michigan Elite Teens program allows young adults to earn extra money through adult-supervised candy sales.

Although kindergarten students are no longer pressured to study hard during their first year of school, they are able to learn through use of fun activities. LaToya Hamilton (above) listens to a story through a headset and follows along in a book. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

It was a cold, crisp autumn afternoon. She hasn't been able to get him off her mind since their chance encounter at Chuck Muer's Wayne. The thought of him makes her heart flutter. That night will remain in her mind forever.....

It was a Friday night as they anxiously awaited the call of their names from the hostess at Chuck Muer's Wayne. Their eyes searched the bar looking for a friendly smile from Wendy the Bartender to order a cocktail. Their eyes met and instantly a cocktail was the farthest thing from their minds. He strode like a Gazelle to the phone booth to cancel his plans for the evening upon his return she too, made a brief call to her closest friend to also postpone their evening. Only a close friend could understand the chance for romance or love.

The time she was gone seemed like forever as he sat at the bar pondering over what his next play would be to have him join her for dinner. He reviewed all of his favorite lines in his mind, but it seemed for this extraordinary woman, none would fit. So as soon as she returned he replied "Care to join me for a live Maine Lobster or a combination platter for two in the dining room?" She instantly answered "of course." He proceeded to the hostess to tell Margaret of their plans to dine in a romantic booth. They exchanged small talk while waiting at the bar "Have you ever tried the Crepe Aubergine before, it's fantastic!" Finally they were beckoned to be seated.

Margaret guided them back to the booth where their future would be molded. As they were seated, their eyes met once again. Sandi approached the table to make them aware of the wonderful Sweetheart Specials being offered this weekend at Chuck Muer's Wayne. She explained about the Homemade Seafood Fettucini Alfredo, the succulent Live Maine Lobster.....

Proposal A

School finance-reform packages merit additional explanation

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

This story is the first in a series of articles outlining the effects of Proposal A and B which are to appear on the Nov. 7 ballot. This week, Proposal A is explained. Next week, Proposal B will be featured. Subsequent articles about the proposals will be featured until election day.

On Tuesday, Nov. 7, voters will be asked to decide on two proposed amendments to the state Constitution that would make comprehensive changes in the way schools are financed in Michigan.

Both proposals – Proposal A and Proposal B – are tax increases.

Proposal A would increase the state sales tax from its present 4 cents to 4 1/2 cents per dollar; Proposal B, more complicated, would increase the sales tax to 6 cents and would provide substantial property-tax relief through a reduction in the school operating millage.

One of the major reasons why the state legislature has tackled school-finance reform and has put together the proposals is the controversy about equal educational opportunity for the student population of the state. Currently, some $6.4

billion is spent on public education and more than 57 percent of that is generated by local property taxes. The state share, via the State School Aid Fund and through categorical grants, (such as transportation, special education, and others) comes to 39 percent, while the federal government coughs up 4 percent.

The lawmakers recently adopted a state-aid formula that would give the school districts $310 per student plus $83.61 per operating mills. Because different school districts reap more from their millage, there is a disproportionate amount of monies available per student. For example, school districts like Bloomfield Hills and Birmingham can spend more than $7,000 per student, while schools such as Inkster and Westwood have less than $3,500 available per student.

There is a definite disparity. Although 100 percent of the lottery profits – approximately $475 million – or 18 percent of the state monies earmarked for education goes toward education, lottery doesn't come close to covering the costs of educating the more than 1,647,000 students in the state.

Proposal A, backed by Gov. James J. Blanchard, would become effective January 1, 1990, if approved by the voters. It would collect an estimated $400 million per year for schools.

However, most local legislators – Rep. James Kosteva (Canton Township), Rep. Justine Barns (Westland), Rep. Lynn Owen (Sumpter Township), Rep. Gerald H. Law (Plymouth), Rep. William Keith (Garden City), along with state Sen. William Faust (Westland) – have spoken out against it because the proposal would not provide property-tax relief. It is, they agree, a straight tax hike.

Proposal A does have, however, the support of state Sen. George Z. Hart. He says monies derived from Proposal A would fund quality curriculum, school accreditation, and other pertinent programs.

In a recent interview, Kosteva stated that his opposition (of Proposal A) "was that it didn't provide any provisions to change the reliance on our property tax."

However, proponents of the proposal argue, if approved, provisions of the proposal would constitutionally specify the generated funds for the School Aid Fund, therefore, school funding would be protected from the impacts of the ups-and-downs of the state economy.

Salute to paper carriers

Youngsters who help each week to deliver the Associated Newspapers were the honored guests Saturday of company president David J. Willett and publisher Susan Willett. The youngsters were given informational packets about being a newspaper carrier and were treated to a tour of the newspaper office. The open house was the finale of week-long activities in recognition of National Newspaper Week. ANP photo by Barbara Wilson

With M-CARE, the sky is not the limit.

There's a serious accident. Time is crucial. A helicopter is dispatched to speed the victim to the University of Michigan Burn Center... a service you, hopefully, will never have to call on. But it's there if you need it, and much, much more through M-CARE.

M-CARE is the only HMO that links all the resources of the U of M Medical Center to the personal care of your family doctor and your nearby hospital. M-CARE covers you for office visits, checkups, hospitalization—even emergency helicopter transport.

Of course, with the M-CARE network of hospitals in cities like Royal Oak, Dearborn and Rochester, you don't always have to go to the U of M Medical Center. But isn't it good to know it's there whenever you need it? To find out more, ask your employer. Or call M-CARE at 747-8700.

Officials consider management of economic growth

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Instead of searching for ways to encourage community growth, area leaders are looking for ways to enhance what already exists.

Local city officials met Oct. 11, as part of a seven-hour conference sponsored by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. The forum, "Managing Growth: A Concern For Local Governments," was staged at the Airport Hilton hotel, in Romulus.

Discussion was centered on managing growth, including a list of effective techniques, legal considerations and state and local perspectives.

Uncontrolled growth is becoming a concern throughout the state, explained conference speaker Mark Wyckoff. Wyckoff is president of Planning and Zoning Center, Inc. and editor of Planning and Zoning News, the company newsletter.

Among the major complaints attributed to uncontrolled growth are impact on traffic, congestion problems and increased accidents, Wyckoff said. Another concern among residents is a reduction in environmental quality.

In most people's eyes, Wyckoff said, these side-effects result in a reduced quality of life. "And people are upset about that," he said.

In addition, the ramifications of uncontrolled development do not remain within city limits.

"A key concept of the conference was the recognition that impact has regional implications," Wyckoff explained. "Community A affects community B."

However, halting development is not the answer, Wyckoff said. Many area communities are rebounding from a recession and need for the increased jobs and tax base new developments provide, Wyckoff said.

There will be and must be additional growth.

"There will be and must be additional growth," Wyckoff explained.

Currently, 60 to 70 techniques are used across the country to manage growth. They include land-use control and zoning regulations, which are the most common and widely used techniques, according to Wyckoff.

Public-facility improvements — such as roads and drainage system — can be incentives for new developments, Wyckoff said. These improvements are typically funded by the community.

Other methods to control growth include a tax and fee system and land acquisition, Wyckoff said.

Many community officials who attended the conference said they believe that the ideas presented are effective to control community growth.

Elizabeth Longley, director of community development for the city of Inkster, also believes that high standards for developers mean a quality community.

"You need goals and objectives, and you need to live by them," Longley said.

Nevertheless, Gerald Martin, research associate for the Canton Township community development department, believes the concept of managed growth is a significant change from the philosophy he learned 10 years ago.

(Then,) most communities were grateful for any kind of growth at all," Martin said.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO ROME

"All roads lead to Rome", the saying goes. A busy, bustling city, Rome is best explored on foot, but watch out for the motor scooters! Take a city tour by bus first, then go back for a more leisurely look.

Rome's monuments are familiar to many — the gigantic Colosseum, the Forum, the Arch of Constantine, Trajan's Column and Tomb, and the Pantheon, where many of Italy's illustrious sons are buried.

St. Peter's Basilica and the Vatican will make you gasp at its awesome proportions, as you gaze skyward at Michelangelo's dome. The walls of the Sistine Chapel are covered with frescoes by Botticelli, done in the 16th century. The library, and the tapestry, map and picture galleries are the finest in their fields.

Walk up the Spanish Steps and see the house where Keats and Shelley lived and wrote their immortal poetry. Notice the many fountains which adorn the squares. Amble down a narrow side street where palaces are often found unexpectedly. Stop in a Via Veneto cafe for a cappuccino. You'll be reluctant to say "Arrivederci, Roma!"

Five night packages start as low as $99 plus air fare. Contact Emily's World for details.

Food

An easy target for temptation

just desserts

sue willert

Temptation is an ugly thing. Sure, there have been times when my desire has seemed almost too overwhelming and the urge for immediate gratification nearly insurmountable. And, yes, there have been occasions when the darker side of my psyche has nearly wrestled control, causing me to fall from the path of righteousness.

But until this week, there was no loss of determination, no threat to my self-respect, no dabbling with the sensual pleasures which I have sworn as a sacred oath. Then, it happened. My remorse knows no boundaries and fills my very soul. My stomach, however, is full of COOKIES!

Yep, it happened. I fell off the cookie truck (as opposed to wagon) and went haywire in the kitchen. Cookies flowed from my oven like water in the Red Sea. Come to think of it, that's just about how the path I cut through the baked delights looked, too. Wide and deep. I enjoyed every mouthful.

The vow of abstinence from my favorite baked good came at the suggestion of several readers who commented that, while they loved cookies, too, they would like to see a recipe for something else in the paper occasionally. Spoilsports.

My husband also gently suggested that a moratorium on the sweets might be appropriate in light of his love of the delicate, crunchy, flavorful taste of cookies before retiring each evening. If the truth be known, the strongest rival I have for my husband's affections is that strumpet Debbie Fields who parades her cookies around at every shopping mall in the country.

Actually, it was his doctor's chiding about his cholesterol that convinced my mate he should curtail the cookies for awhile. Since he has far more willpower than I do, I managed to control my strong physical urges until this week, but I am only human and fall I did. There were cookies everywhere.

Notice the past tense. Enough said, except that David didn't fall prey to temptation. At least, that's our story in the unlikely event his doctor ever reads this.

Caramel pecan bars

- 1 cup butter
- 1 1/2 cups brown sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup pecans, chopped
- 1 12-ounce package milk chocolate chips

Beat 1/2 cup butter and 1 cup brown sugar. Mix in flour. Mixture will be the consistency of coarse meal. Press into ungreased 13 x 9-inch pan. Scatter pecans over mixture. Melt 1/2 cup butter in saucepan. Stir in 1/2 cup brown sugar and bring to a boil over medium heat. Boil one minute, stirring constantly. Pour over pecans and crust. Bake approximately 20 minutes at about 350 degrees, until golden brown and bubbly. After removing from oven, sprinkle milk chocolate chips over top while hot. When chocolate begins to melt, spread it over surface. Cool and cut into squares. Refrigerate for 30 minutes. Pack (what a laugh) in air-tight container. Makes three to four dozen.

Eating out doesn't have to be fattening

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Instead of a quarter pounder, how about a turkey burger? Why not sample blackened trout instead of a tuna melt?

Grills and diners were once associated with greasy dishes and large helpings, but there are some new diners turning up with a new approach.

The Merriman Street Grill, in Romulus, for example offers alternatives to dishes once associated with grills. And, says general manager Paul Nasir, their customers love it.

Actually, he said, the restaurant is not creating new trends in food. It is responding to existing ones - new types of sandwiches, salads, appetizers and a passion for seafood and poultry. Most tie in with the ever-increasing desire for nutritious food.

In fact, many of the restaurant selections have been endorsed by the American Heart Association.

"You seem to have a stereotype of people who make these choices. Really, it's across the board," Nasir said.

Successful from day one for the restaurant were the three or four fresh catch selections offered daily. Customers can ask for fish that is blackened, poached, pan fried, batter fried or charbroiled. The restaurant never offers frozen fish, Nasir said.

Other grill specialties are the vegetable/zucchini lasagna, chicken fettuccine, fresh baked bread, and homemade soup.

Nasir, who often has a hand in the cooking, said soup is his favorite item to prepare because it allows room for creativity. Actually, Nasir would just as soon spend his day preparing soups and salads. He loves the gratification of seeing customers' reactions.

Continuing with the food selections, Nasir said the most popular desserts are apple pie and "monster cookies." The cookies are coated with hot fudge. They are not necessarily nutritious, but Nasir has yet to hear a complaint.

"These items suggest our concept. People come in here for a good, casual meal."

For Nasir, who is in the restaurant nearly every day, the best menu choice is the turkey burger.

"Every day I eat here I eat a turkey burger. I never get tired of them."

For a sample of some of the restaurant specialties, Nasir offered some recipes. He pointed out the liquid measurements are determined with spoons and measuring cups. Dry or solid ingredients are weighed on a scale.

Great northern bean soup

- 4 ounces yellow onion, diced
- 2 ounces celery, diced
- 12 ounces ham, diced in 1/4 inch squares
- 4 ounces bacon, diced very fine
- 1 quart cooked great northern beans, juice and all (measure beans after they are cooked)
- 2 ounces vegetable oil
- 36 ounces water
- 1/4 teaspoon white pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon basil

House vinaigrette

- 1/2 ounce fresh garlic
- 6 ounces red wine vinegar
- 12 ounces vegetable oil
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon basil leaf
- 1/2 teaspoon coarse black pepper
- 1 ounce granulated sugar
- 1 ounce honey

Blend egg, garlic and four ounces of oil until garlic is emulsified. Continue mixing in large mixing bowl on low and slowly add oil and vinegar. Dressing should continue to thicken until all liquid is incorporated. Add sugar, honey, basil, black pepper and oregano. Chill mixture. Bacon, white pepper, garlic powder, thyme and basil until bacon is fully rendered. Add beans and water. Simmer for one hour.

for 12 hours before serving.
Blackening spice

- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon white pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/3 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 1/3 teaspoon oregano

Mix paprika, salt, onion and garlic powder, pepper, thyme leaves and oregano. Coat in mixture fish or steak. Sear in a very hot, flat skillet. (Note: This method creates a great deal of smoke. Cooks may want to try this step outdoors, perhaps over a barbecue grill). Leave meat over lower heat until it is cooked to satisfaction.

Recent reader questions on Michigan Lottery instant games are answered in this column.

Q. When will the Lottery have a new instant game?

A. "Jokers Wild" was introduced at all 8,900 instant game retailers on September 11.

Q. Does this mean "Fame & Fortune" will end?

A. No. The very successful "Fame & Fortune" will continue for an indefinite period, so players will find two scratch-off games being sold at the same time.

Q. What's different about "Joker's Wild"?

A. All "Joker's Wild" prizes are cash and are paid by any retailer selling instant games, while "Fame & Fortune" features tickets showing three TV entry symbols offering a chance to appear on the weekly televised game show.

Q. How is "Joker's Wild" played?

A. Play in "Joker's Wild" is similar to that of previous instant games. A panel on tickets covers six hidden playing card symbols: 9 through Ace plus a Joker. When scratched off, any three matching symbols win a cash prize. As the name states, Jokers are wild cards and combine with any two matching symbols to win.

Q. How much can I win in "Joker's Wild"?

A. Prizes range from $2 up to $100 with odds better than one in seven that a ticket will be a winner.

Q. Has the Michigan Lottery ever sold two games at the same time before this?

A. Only in isolated instances after a new game was introduced and retailers continued to sell tickets on the previous game until their supply ran out.

Q. Why are you starting it now?

A. While most instant players seem to like the chance to appear on statewide television, others prefer games in which they can collect prizes immediately. So now, as store posters indicate, we are offering them a choice of "One for the Money" and "One for the Show."

Q. Who decides what kind of games will be offered?

A. It could be said that players do. Lottery officials constantly monitor sales of various instant games here and in other states while exploring new possibilities. Their decisions on the type of games to be offered are based primarily on indicated player preferences.

Q. Can we look forward to more new instant games?

A. The Michigan Lottery tries to keep all its games as fresh and exciting for players as possible. Thus undoubtedly will lead to frequent periodic changes in its instant games.

For submitting the first question leading to this column, Marie Burchard of Eastlake will receive 50 "Jokers Wild" tickets. Note: When duplicate questions are received, that with the earliest date stamp will be used. In cases of tie, the winner will be selected by random drawing.

If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 38877, Lansing, MI 48908.

Party Restaurant offers deals of years ago

By BARBARA WILSON
ANP Managing Editor

It was "people, people everywhere" Monday at Haab's Restaurant, in Ypsilanti.

Restaurant owners Mike Kabat and Harvey Glaze rolled prices back to the Depression era to celebrate 55 years of business at the Michigan Avenue landmark.

"This is our way of saying thank you to the community that supports us," Kabat said over the din of anxious customers who waited in line outside the restaurant.

By 3 p.m. Monday, Kabat estimated that they had already served 550 people. At 3 p.m., 300 people were standing outside.

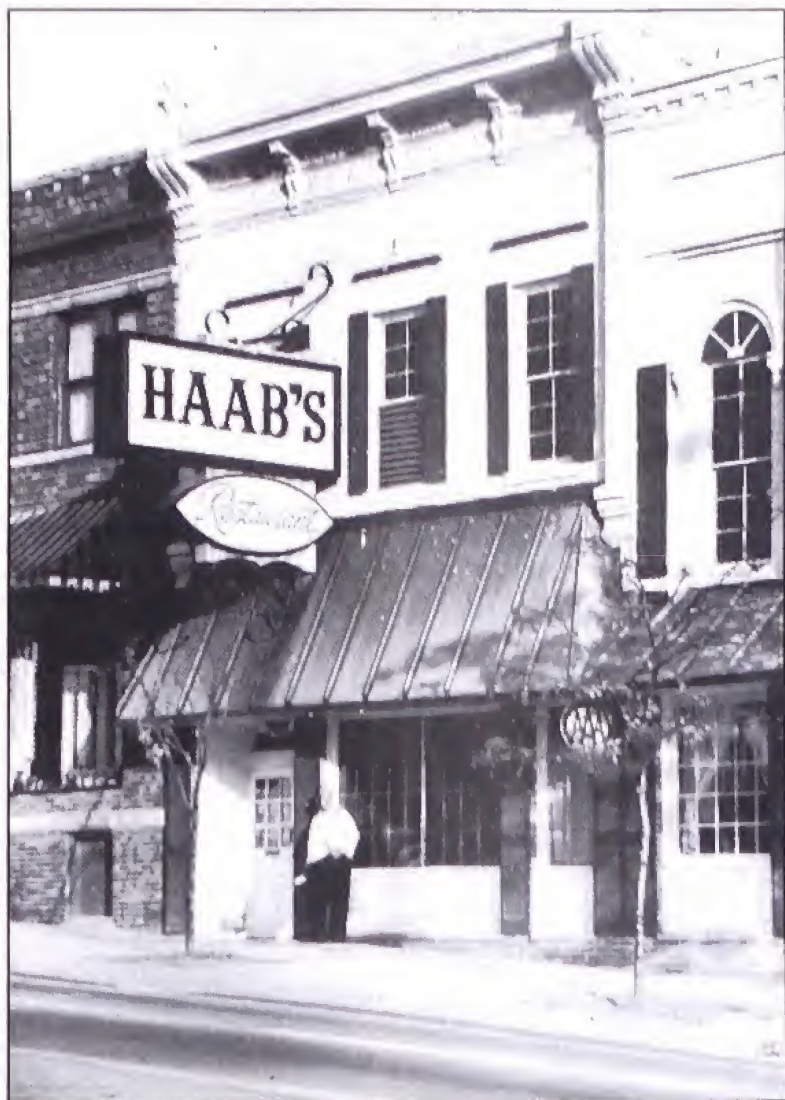

"It seems strange that there would be so many people out there now since it isn't a typical mealtime," Kabat said.

Mealtime or not, hundreds of people were anxious to enjoy the food dishes which have made Haab's famous. And at prices that can't be beat anywhere. A 40-cent spaghetti dinner cannot be had just anywhere.

This is the eighth consecutive year that the restaurant owners have offered the special anniversary promotion, and the event is expected to be offered again next year.

"We have such a great time every year," Kabat said.

The event is staged each year on the third Monday in October.

In past years, as many as 2,500 people dined at the restaurant on the anniversary date. Whether or not that number would be topped, Kabat did not hazard to guess.

The event has never proved to be a money-maker for the restaurants. Rather they estimate the cost to them on a chicken dinner to be $1.10, when they are charging only 50 cents for it as part of the promotion. They do, however, find that the event serves to increase their clientele.

Haab Brothers Cafe, 18 W. Michigan Avenue, first opened in 1934 offering a full dinner menu. The restaurant has since become a landmark, maintaining its original name and much of the same decor.

Local bar contributes to children's hospital

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

After spending 13 years in and out of Children's Hospital, in Detroit, Jackie Gamp last summer decided to give something back.

Last week, her goal materialized. She presented her doctor at the hospital with a check for $1,000.

Gamp earned the money during a recent charity rock concert at her family's bar, The Silver Bullet Lounge, in Romulus. The show featured 10 performers, including singer/night club owner Jamie Cole.

In addition, Gamp worked with 14 Romulus business officials, who donated prizes for a series of raffles staged during the concert. In all, approximately $800 was collected.

Members of the Gamp family added enough to bring the figure to $1,000 and made the check presentation Oct. 10.

Gamp's mother, Anna, said arranging the fundraiser became very important to her daughter. Gamp, 23, has been suffering from kidney ailments since she was a baby and was hospitalized many times during her childhood.

"She was a very sick little girl," Anna said.

Gamp, in fact, is still battling her condition. Her last hospital stay was last May, when she was admitted for surgery.

When Gamp made her presentation to her doctor last week, she asked that the money be used for the urology department. Anna said she is very impressed with her daughter's efforts.

"She arranged everything. I was very proud of her," she explained.

Because of the success of the fundraiser, the Gamps have decided to make it an annual event. The next group concert will be staged in September 1990.

"It helps kick off our band season," Anna said, explaining that bar officials feature weekend performers from September through Memorial Day.

The success of the fundraiser is a good sign for the bar, Anna said. She feels business is improving.

The Silver Bullet opened approximately three years ago. However, it has taken time to develop a steady clientele, she said.

A family business, the bar is operated by Jack and Anna Gamp and their children, Christa, 21; Don, 22 and Jackie.

Robichaud prepares homecoming feast at Inkster expense

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With Highland Park taking possession of the 1989 Suburban Athletic Conference football crown, there's nothing left for Robichaud, the defending champ, but to take its frustration out on natural-rival Inkster.

After all, Inkster has won only one of its seven games this season, and Robichaud occupies the seat next to the throne. The Parkers have a 5-0 record as compared to Robichaud's 4-1 SAC mark.

The two arch-rivals will meet 3:30 p.m. Friday at Robichaud. Robichaud will be greeting homecoming fans for this one.

But, Robichaud Coach Robert Yauck, always an optimist, doesn't see the pending confrontation as a Bulldog landslide. No, indeed. In fact, he believes it will be close.

"I know that they (Inkster) haven't looked impressive, but, believe me, they always get up for us. Anyone who has followed the rivalry between these two schools knows this one is for the bragging rights," Yauck added. "It's the kind of game, like Michigan-Michigan State, Navy-Army - you toss out the records."

For the record, Robichaud will take a 4-1 SAC and a 4-4 overall mark up against the Vikings, who are 1-6 on the year and 1-4 in the league.

Oak Park bombed the Vikings 58-8 last week, while Robichaud routed Willow Run 30-6. The Flyers averted the shutout late in the game, in fact, with 38 seconds remaining on a pass play.

Tyrone Wheatley accounted for two of the Bulldog touchdowns as he scored on a seven-yard option in the first quarter and, almost on the identical play, scored with a six-yarder in the final period after a sustained 42-yard drive.

Robichaud also cashed in on fullback Shawn Taylor's 16-yard run for a second period TD. Taylor also contributed the two-point conversion. Fred Matthews tallied on a 49-yard off-tackle play in the third quarter as Taylor and Robert Stewart led the way.

The Bulldog defense also got into the scoring act. In the final period, defensive end Paul Brannon blocked a punt and Robert Brooks recovered the ball in the endzone for the two-point.

Wheatley, who hit on two of nine passes for 29 yards, carried 19 times for 125 yards. Matthews finished with 69 yards for his 10 attempts.

Yauck commended the outstanding defense of his line-backers - Stewart, Brannon and Gary Phillips - who made sure the Flyers didn't get out of their hangar must of the afternoon.

In other SAC games, Highland Park rolled to its fifth straight victory and the title with a 38-0 victory over winless Ecorse, while Port Huron won a slugfest from River Rouge, 38-32.

Romulus leaps into fire

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After their worst defeat of the season, first-year coach Dan Henry doesn't expect it to become any easier for the Eagles of Romulus in their last games of the 1989 campaign.

The Eagles, buried 35-13 last week by state-ranked Milan, will travel to Ann Arbor Pioneer Friday night. Pioneer has won two of the last three Class A state championships.

And, although the Pioneers are coming off of a 33-20 loss to Ypsilanti, they have another respectable team, Henry said.

Moreover, when you consider that in the last two encounters between Pioneer and Romulus, Pioneer has rolled up a 99-0 score, it is no wonder that Henry and the Eagles feel as if "they are leaping out of a frying pan and right into the fire."

"We never have scored on them (Pioneer)," noted Henry, who is rounding out his first year as the Romulus coach. "They have beaten Romulus 33-0 and 66-0. We are definitely going to have our hands full."

Henry, however, believes the 1989 Pioneer team, though respectable, is vulnerable. "If we can eliminate our mistakes, I believe we can play with this (Pioneer) team."

Mistakes, in the form of five interceptions, paved the way for Milan's lopsided victory over the Eagles. The Romulus defense also had problems containing Jessie Walker, an all-state candidate, who continues to impress Big 10 Conference coaches.

Belleville places 1-2 at Franklin Relays

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville runners came away with gold and silver medals at the Livonia Franklin Relays last week.

The boys outdistanced their peers from Westland John Glenn, which finished second, followed by Livonia Franklin, Livonia Churchill, Bishop Borgess and Garden City.

The Tiger girls were second-best, trailing only Franklin across the finish line. Franklin posted the winning time of 44:16, while Coach Sam Vicchy's runners were clocked in 45:44. Glenn finished third, followed by Churchill, Bishop Borgess and Garden City.

Belleville won the boys division thanks to Tony Maciejewski, Peter and Paul LaFramboise, Pablo Cabo, Troy Adams, Jason Kidwell, and Gary Knowlton who ran a 36:10 for the seven-mile course.

The Belleville girls posted a 45:41 with Jenny Woodington, Jessica Bolter, Faith Bodenmiller, Anne Gray, Carmilita Martell, Amy Fisher and Taira Jared competing.

In Wolverine 'A' Conference competition last week, the Belleville boys' team boosted its record to 6-1 as they turned back Trenton, 21-38, and swamped Lincoln Park, 15-49, in a triangular meet. The Tigers finished 1-2 with Adams and Kidwell, who posted identical 17:42 times; Knowlton was fifth (18:40), while Cabo was sixth (18:42). Others who figured in the Belleville scoring are the LaFramboise brothers, who nailed down seventh and eighth places.

Trenton managed to eke out a 21-39 victory over the Belleville girls' team, while Belleville surfaced with an easy 19-36 win over Lincoln Park.

Freshman Ann Gray again dominated the meet as she placed first with a 20:20 effort. The Tigers received a sixth-place finish from Martell (22:47), while Fisher was 11th (24:08), and Jared was 14th (24:36).

Belleville was scheduled to host a triangular meet Tuesday with Monroe, the defending champ, and Wayne, always tough, invading the Tiger lair.

Tiger tankers travel to Wayne

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With their first league victory in place, Belleville swimmers will travel to Wayne Memorial tonight to take on their arch Wolverine 'A' Conference rivals.

Belleville Coach Greg Cooper sizes up the meet as a "key one" for his young team.

"It will also be one of the better dual meets in our league," Cooper predicted. "Wayne has always been a tough opponent and coach McPartlin (Jim McPartlin) has had a tradition of fielding outstanding talent."

The meet is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Wayne High pool.

In the meantime, with Jennifer Snure, Kristy Curtis and Jennifer Caldwell each accounting for two first places, the Tigers coasted past Southgate Anderson, 93-58, for their first conference victory in three starts.

"It was a good meet for us, and we needed this victory to give our kids some confidence," said Cooper, whose club is now 3-3-1 on the season.

Snure dominated the 200 and the 500-yard freestyle events. She was clocked in 2:11.97 in winning the 200, then turned in a 5:50.20 to win the 500. Curtis surfaced with a 2:41.19 in winning the 200-yard individual medley. She swam a 1:12.90 in capture the gold for the 100-yard backstroke.

Caldwell was the best 100-yard freestyle in the meet as she covered the distance in 1:05.40; she touched in at 1:23.91 to win the 100-yard breaststroke.

Loss to Wayne proves costly for Belleville

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Coach Sam Villa and the Tigers of Belleville will not forget Friday night.

Yes, it was Friday, the 13th. And how the Tigers suffered.

Not only did Wayne Memorial run wild over the Tigers and buried their Wolverine 'A' Conference rivals, 41-7, but the visiting Belleville gridders also lost veteran quarterback Jeremy Ison for the season.

Ison was injured in the first series of plays and forced to the sidelines.

"He has a broken ankle," said Villa of his star quarterback. "That means he'll be out for the remainder of the season."

Villa turned to John Yocum, a 6-0, 160-pound junior, to fill the void created by the injury. However, the Tigers just couldn't generate the offense to stop the stampeding Zebras. Wayne leaped to a 19-0 halftime lead and the Tigers were never a threat.

"The injury to Ison, I felt, sort of caught us off-balance, and we never recovered," Villa said. "This definitely was our worst game of the season."

The loss left the Tigers with a 3-3 conference and a 4-3 overall record. They will face Wyandotte Friday in the conference finale before taking on Romulus in the 1989 season finale a week from Friday.

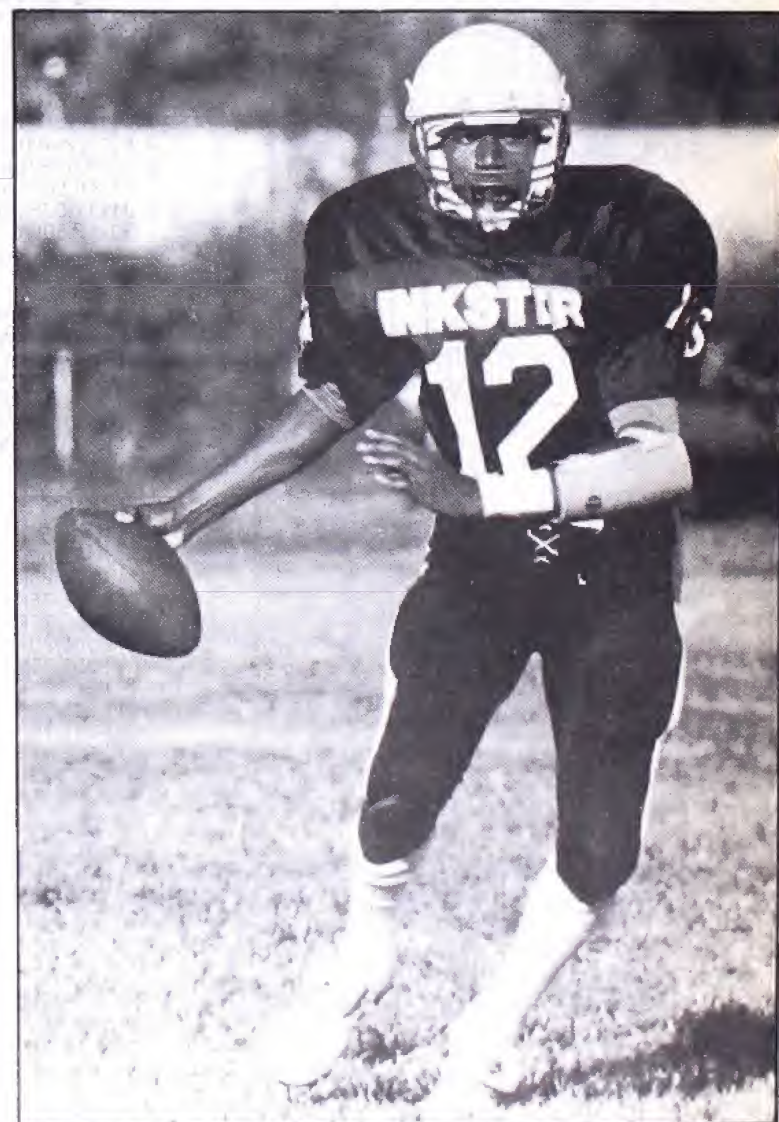

Villa says that Wyandotte has proved it can be tough. The Bruins upset Wayne earlier in the year and, "if we play the same kind of game as we did at Wayne, Wyandotte will kill us, too."

Villa added that "it will be interesting to see how these kids come back after losing the way we did."

Belleville averted the shutout at Wayne thanks to a 15-yard touchdown run by Josh Fisher, who scored in the last quarter. Yocum kicked the extra point.

Running back John Zaccaria, who rushed for 88 yards in 14 carries, led the Tiger ballcarriers.

Fordson shut out Trenton 22-0 Saturday to capture the 1989 Wolverine 'A' Conference championship. Coach Charles Jestice and the Tractors have a perfect 7-0 record and are well on their way toward clinching a post-season playoff berth. In other conference games, Monroe, the defending champ, made it four straight with a 19-10 victory over Wyandotte.

Launching pad

Inkster quarterback Tyrone Orr (12) is poised to launch this missile into space, and he appears to have all the time in the world. Unfortunately, there was no pressure on the opposition - Oak Park. The Parkers had everything under control and won a lopsided 58-8 decision. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer
